CLIENT-DIRECTED SERVICE

- We follow our clients' interests because we respect our clients. •

We never push clients into roles to fill quotas for others. Instead, we help our clients investigate their own interests, navigate the job market, and develop the interpersonal, workplace, and self-advocacy skills that support their success in careers that are meaningful to them.

- Years of personal experience navigating autism services with her family for her son's Autism diagnosis allow her to look at things through a compassionate, empathetic lens and provide a uniquely receptive perspective.
- More than 5 years experience in community engagement and development as a part of local non-profit organizations.
- Strong relationship-builder, connecting various people and groups throughout the community to gain a better understanding for what our community needs and how we are able to support them.
- Creative thinker and passionate about helping others succeed.
- Takes pride in helping clients break barriers and grow in their professional skills and personal confidence as they pursue meaningful employment.
